Optimism Evident Everywhere On Recent Tulsa Trade Trip

Optimism was the most outstanding feature of the trade trip which was recently made from this city. It had a part in it. Everywhere the Texans went they met with satisfaction over existent conditions and confidence in the future.

This was true not only in one but in all lines of business—general merchandise, hardware, dry goods, ready-to-wear, banking circles, farm implements. All of them were doing business and all of them reported in the same vein. Such an atmosphere characterized not alone those visited but the visitors as well, for spring business here in Tulsa had provided an impetus for the trip that nothing else could have done. Friendliness, a feeling of well being and loyalty was too genuine to be mistaken.

The trip included towns within a radius of about 30 miles. The business men who spent the day in the country found a great feeling of friendliness between Tulsa and these nearby towns that felt that Tulsa might, by virtue of business equipment and the importance and size of the city, to be more a business magnet and center for all towns within a considerable radius than it is. They feel that because it is qualified to be that, it but remains for the people of these towns to recognize it and it will be. Everywhere they went they found the friendliest attitude towards Tulsa, a willingness to be enlightened in regard to her business advantages and privileges as a shopping center and to co-operate in making the city one of the most stable and outstanding of the southwest.

The Retail Merchants' association, in sponsoring trips such as that taken the other day, is realizing that it can be built from within alone but is dependent not only upon the soil but upon the smaller towns round about, the attitude toward, opinion of and relationship with the "big sister" town. Tulsa as the city center of northeastern Oklahoma must have the friendship and co-operation of the smaller towns of this part of the state and there is but one basis for such a relationship and that is close acquaintance. This fact was brought out at Drumright by William Holden, secretary of the chamber of commerce in a talk outlining the purposes of such a trip from standpoint of both Tulsa and its trade territory towns.

Those who had a part in last week's trip were not only encouraged very much by the general feeling of optimism over general conditions due to this feeling, that perhaps partly due to this feeling, it was one of the most successful trips of its kind that the association had ever taken.

Interurban cars to Sapulpa carry baggage and express. Package freight car leaves First and Guthrie streets at 8:45 a. m. and 2:45 p. m., daily except Sunday.

terior decorating or at least rudimentary instruction along that line, is in such a quandary as when she has to plan for upholstering that will "fit" with the furnishings of a room. Good taste along this line almost invariably means a foundation of information about such things.

W. L. Rist, who has the Antiques Furniture store at 755 North Peoria Street, maintains a department in upholstery and gives expert service along this line. He does the best work in high-grade upholstering and does enameling, refinishing and repairing, as well.

ESTABLISHED EIGHT HOUR DAY

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Establishment of the eight hour day for employees in the executive branches of the government is being considered by the administration.

The thousands of clerks, stenographers and other minor employees of various departments in Washington almost without exception now work seven hours a day. The consideration now being given to lengthening of the day is predicated on the belief that such an extension would be in the interests of economy and efficiency.

The question of extending the work-day, it was said today by one high official, has been discussed by cabinet members between themselves and also was taken up recently at a cabinet meeting.

NATIONAL PARK CONFERENCE,
NEW YORK, May 21.—The second national conference on parks, which opens at Bear Mountain tomorrow will bring together in the New York vicinity most of the country's greatest experts on parks and public reservations. The one big idea of the conference is to start a series of state parks extending across the country so that travel may be stimulated and a proper enjoyment of the reservations be provided.

New Knows How to Get Out of the Capital

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Senator New, republican, Indiana, who was defeated for reelection in the recent primary, today told of meeting some tourists who were confused in the capital corridors and asked him if he could tell them how "to get out."

"You bet I can," Senator New replied, "just stick to your job and run in a primary."
